PIPER GRAY DESIGNS

Libby Barnes, interior decorator and blogger, has successfully grown her passion for interior design, DIY, and a love of all things stylish into a thriving interior design business. For over 15 years, she has designed, built and installed her work not only in her own home, but for her clients as well. As a mom, she understands the desire to achieve a livable and practical space while also being stylish.

Libby is known for her ability to achieve a chic design aesthetic with the use of refined fabrics, clean lines, and seamlessly combining both polished and rough-hewn pieces. She brings to life her overall vision using her experience and knowledge of design coupled with the overall goal resulting in a space that her clients can love.

This blog was created to shed light into the world of design, an area that often seems overwhelming and sometimes unattainable to many. Through her custom design approach, Libby's goal is to inspire anyone with a desire to transform their decor, whether it be one living space or an entire home, into something they never thought possible.

"Everyone deserves to be surrounded by an environment that gives you a sense of joy and serenity. You should love your space. You should love your home." Libby Barnes
